Hello Faculty,

I got the inspiration to find the quote listed on this page after watching some of the interviews of cohort 45 during their White Coat Ceremony. Something that the previous NUSNA president (Stephanie) said during her interview is that she didn't think she could do it, but look at her now. She has now made it and graduated from nursing school. Nursing school is a beast, like we all know. So many people I have talked to throughout my program (myself included) have said how they didn't think they could get past that one exam or that one class; but we always made it through and felt rewarded when we conquered what we thought would be our downfall.

Just a little recap of November: NSNA, Honor's Society Induction Ceremony, White Coat Ceremony, great community service opportunities, NUSNA blood drive, a new Workshops Director, and our Holiday Cheer Event! So many great events packed into one month. One last note, all of our community service events for December have Faculty signed up to supervise; so no faculty needs for December!
